

HIGHSNOBIETY

LIVING SHOES IS THE FUTURE OF FASHION

1 DAY AGO IN CULTURE
WORDS BY Emma O'Brien

©canyaon

This article was published on October 19

Sasha or @Canyaon on Instagram is changing the shoe game one post at a time. Only two days ago using living plants Sasha is giving a basic shoe a new life but also creating an art piece labeled the “salomon xt-6 moss.”

©canyaon

Sasha didn't create the concept of using living or edible materials in fashion but his take on shoes instead of garments brings a whole new view to it. On October 17 2022 @Canyaon released images of a grass finished shoe using Salomon hiking sneakers. Salomon isn't exactly a trending or fashion forward brand, being a French sports equipment company. Sasha doesn't release much reasoning or inspiration behind his designs, but it is up for interpretation. Sasha used a hiking shoe as the base of his mossy design. Choosing to use this type of shoe over a trendier shoe is to allow for the mossy look to follow a similar theme to the shoe type. This could be the start of all eyes on shoes on the runway. Sasha has a sense of mystery to his followers which make people want to know more about him, his art what's next.

Moss looking fashionable isn't anything you'd expect but with the latest trends there is so much room for growth and exploration within the shoe industry. This could be the start to a new and exclusive trend for the sneaker heads of the world. The real question is, what will Sasha do next? Just like you, we can't wait to find out.

©canyaon